If all you know of Spanish cinema is Antonio Banderas, Penélope Cruz, and Netflix's Money Heist (better known as La Casa del Papel), get ready to learn.

The Olympia Theater is set to put on the ninth-annual minifestival Recent Cinema From Spain. Splitting the difference between experimental and commercial films, the lineup includes Javier Bardem's climate-change documentary, Sanctuary, the dance drama Yuli, and the award-winning animation Buñuel in the Labyrinth of the Turtles, which recounts a surreal episode in the legendary Spanish auteur's life. Various times Thursday through Sunday at Olympia Theater, 174 E Flagler St., Miami; 305-374-2444; olympiatheater.org. Tickets cost $10 to $20.
